Whether your current bathroom radiator is past repair or if you're looking at the best ways to heat your space ahead of a bathroom remodel, there are lots of brilliant options to explore.

INTRODUCTION

Use the these ideas above to make your bathroom a little more inviting and enjoyable. Whether you're planning a bathroom remodel or building a new home, thinking creatively about the bathroom can make all the difference in keeping the winter blues at bay.

I. How to keep your bathroom toasty and inviting in all seasons

After a long hot summer, one thing for certain is that when winter comes about, we will feel that drop in temperature. And there is no denying that one of the rooms that is the most chilly to walk into during the cooler months is the bathroom. Big or small, bathrooms often feel the cold because of tiling or another type of hardfloor option. Additionally, due to the nature of the space, bathrooms can be susceptible to damp and condensation so good ventilation and a consistent temperature is essential.

Luxury design as you want it

Whether you live in a Victorian terrace and want to keep a beautiful classic finish in the bathroom, or if you're looking to create a more modern and sleek interior, you'll be able to find a bathroom radiator that suits your design scheme with the Radiator Outlet(opens in new tab). Available in a variety of sizes and configurations, choose a traditional column radiator to add character and to heat your bathroom space efficiently.

For a timeless look, you can opt for a sleek flat panel towel rail. Built with structure bars on the same side of the rail, these offer a stunning design that is practical on all fronts also. Choose from different finishes including classic white, anthracite or select a raw metal option and you're sure to create the space you have in mind.

If your bathroom wants a more contemporary option to suit the rest of your home, opting for a straight anthracite or chrome finish towel rail is sure to modernise your surroundings. Curved rails will enhance the overall design of lots of different bathroom styles, not to mention, the finish will suit and enhance an array of colour schemes.

Form and function

From looks to function, whether you've a large bathroom or a small downstairs toilet to heat, all of Radiator Outlet's towel radiators come in a variety of sizes to suit the room at hand and your heating needs.

Column radiators come as double columns which provides adequate heating for most homes but, should you need a higher heat output, there is the option of triple column models. Additionally, if a towel rail, or multiple towel rails, will do better in your space, these are available in both vertical and horizontal dimensions to suit your bathroom's height and layout, as well as your household's needs.

Not only will the different finish options add to the aesthetic of your space but, chosen wisely and this can better match your lifestyle needs also. Whether you've children running round or not, opting for anthracite can be the more forgiving option for grubby finger marks, while if you know that your space is always spick and span, a bright white column bathroom radiator or towel rail will add an elegant touch.

Heating that suits your space

Depending on when your house was built, you may or may not have a central heating system available in the bathroom, but this doesn't mean that radiators are off the cards. Opt for a traditional column bathroom radiator if this works for your home's existing heating system, while choosing an electric option will give a sleek and modern finish, with no compromise on performance.

Ideal when there is no central heating system available, this type of straight tube radiator comes pre-filled with fluid for a sound-free experience, and consistent output of heat. Additionally, the glycol fluid can withstand cold temperatures as low as -10°C, helping to stop radiators freezing which is always best avoided, they offer a practical solution to all types of households.

Plus, while Radiator Outlet always advises a professional installer for all types of radiator, the electric models are far simpler to get up and running in your home should you choose the DIY route.

Radiator Outlet's towel rails are designed with performance and longevity in mind to ensure that you make a worthwhile investment to keep your home warm throughout the coldest months of the year. All radiators and heated towel rails are built using premium quality mild steel to ensure their durability and a brilliant heat output so you can rest assured that your bathroom will stay cosy and stylish.

Not to mention, when you order from such a reputable brand like the Radiator Outlet that offers fast and free delivery on all orders, plus most radiators also come with a 10-year guarantee, you can have peace of mind that you'll enjoy exceptional service and great value for money.

II. 9 Bathroom Remodel Ideas That Will Transform Your Space

A bathroom remodel, or even a simple bathroom update, is a project that can significantly improve the look and feel of your home without significantly reducing the amount of money in your home improvement budget.

Are some bathroom design elements expensive? Absolutely. But no matter how much (or how little) cash you have set aside for this project, you have options that will inspire you to place 'remodel bathroom' at the top of your to-do list.

What Is a Bathroom Remodel?

Falling somewhere between 'refresh' and 'complete renovation,' a bathroom remodel is a process that allows you to make your current bathroom more functional without requiring you to tear down walls and remove all of the cabinets.

Think changing colors, refinishing surfaces, replacing fixtures (like old toilets and tubs) and making sure everything is aligned with current safety standards. Some bathroom remodel ideas can be done in a day, while others will require a longer timeline.

Here are nine ideas to get you started on your bathroom remodel.

1. Install a Freestanding Bathtub

"Built-in deck bathtubs used to be the thing, but now they look dated and take up a lot of space," Ariana Lovato, owner of Honeycomb Home Design in Shell Beach, California, told Forbes Advisor.

Instead, she recommends freestanding bathtubs, which are elegant, timeless, and easier to reface. The one caveat? Freestanding tubs can be hard to get in and out of for some people, so keep that in mind before you commit.

2. Select an Undermount Sink

Undermount sinks are known for their sleek design, but one of their best features is the fact that they are so much easier to clean than their traditional overmount counterparts, Lovato says.

Available in a range of colors, styles and price points, adding an undermount sink to your bathroom is an upgrade you won't regret—and one that will likely leave you wondering why you waited so long to make the switch.

3. Upgrade Your Toilet

While a basic toilet gets the job done, a bathroom remodel is the perfect opportunity to switch the basic out for something a little more luxurious. One of the obvious choices, Lovato says, is to add a bidet (something that feels almost like a requirement after the great toilet paper shortage of 2020).

However, you don't have to stop there—today's toilet manufacturers are incorporating heated seats, automatic flushing, self-cleaning and smart technology into their designs.

4. Consider a Medicine Cabinet

Wait, a medicine cabinet? Aren't they a little on the antiquated side? Believe it or not, medicine cabinets are making a comeback, says Lovato. And today's medicine cabinets are a far cry from the medicine cabinets of yore, she says, explaining that you can now find medicine cabinets that offer just as much in terms of design appeal as they do in space to store your ibuprofen.

Some higher-end medicine cabinets even incorporate USB ports so you can keep all those electric toothbrushes hidden behind closed doors.

5. Add Steam to Your Shower

These days, everyone is looking for ways to incorporate a little self-care into the daily routine. One way to do this, Lovato says, is by replacing your regular shower with a steam shower. Steam showers essentially re-create the spa experience at home, and some even incorporate aromatherapy, Wi-Fi, lighting and other high-tech features.

Naturally, steam showers aren't going to be easy on everyone's budget—but if you have the resources, this is a bathroom remodeling project that you most certainly will not regret.

6. Contemplate Your Color Palette

Who decided that a bathroom had to be neutral in color? The truth is, the bathroom is just as apt to benefit from a color scheme change as any other room in your house. So, instead of going for the color you think should go in a bathroom, select colors that you love.

This may result in bright green cabinets, pink tile or dark walls that coordinate perfectly with your vinyl flooring. All are acceptable, as long as you like it—just be sure to think about whether the bathroom color scheme is something you are willing to either live with or modify in the event that your taste changes in the future.

7. Prioritize Lighting

If the only lighting in your bathroom comes from the bulbs above your vanity, you are probably not getting the most out of your personal grooming routine. Vanity lighting is important, but you'll enjoy your bathroom much more if that isn't all you have.

Options include adding ambient lighting fixtures around the bathroom or bringing in some accent lighting into the space (this is a light fixture that is as much about looks as it is about function). You can install shower lighting, as well.

8. Install a Ventilation Fan

If your bathroom doesn't have a fan, now is the time to put one in (plus, it is now a code requirement). Fans allow air to circulate so mold is kept at bay, and they also reduce moisture and humidity (especially helpful for anyone who decides to get on the steam shower bandwagon).

When installing a bathroom fan, make sure it exhausts to your home's exterior (not to your attic). Concerned about noise? No worries—many modern fans are as quiet as they are effective at minimizing moisture.

9. Incorporate Storage Solutions

If you've ever stepped out of the shower to discover that you forgot to grab a towel from the hallway linen closet, you'll understand why adding storage is an essential component of any bathroom remodeling project. And believe it or not, you can find space for storage even in the smallest of bathrooms.

Hooks and baskets are no-nonsense, but you can also incorporate built-ins or install floating shelves (and don't forget about the trusty medicine cabinet mentioned above). And if you have enough room for dedicated bathroom storage cabinets, definitely go for it—you'll never regret having a convenient place to keep towels, extra shampoo and all those other bathroom incidentals.

III. Simple Tricks to Create a Spa-Like Bathroom on a Budget

Yes, even on a budget, you can have a luxe, spa-like bathroom. Follow our tips and tricks to create your own calming oasis without breaking your bank account.

A trip to the spa leaves you feeling relaxed, pampered, and rejuvenated. The experience centers on a serene environment that's carefully designed to help you unwind and escape, and you can easily re-create that soothing atmosphere in your own bathroom. By incorporating calming elements, upgrading fixtures, and minimizing clutter, you can achieve a spa-like escape that allows you to melt away stress and relax in peace.

It requires only a few simple tweaks—you don't have to take on a major bathroom remodel—just reimagine your bathroom as your own personal sanctuary, and use these tips to achieve that feeling every day.

1. Incorporate natural decor.

Incorporating plants is one of the easiest tricks for making your bathroom feel like a spa. Place potted houseplants on the floor, countertop, and other bathroom surfaces, or try hanging a potted plant from the ceiling. Be sure to choose plants that will thrive in a humid bathroom environment and in the light the space receives. If living plants aren't suitable for your space or skills, set a vase filled with fresh flowers on a shelf or countertop, or decorate with faux plants or flowers.

2. Declutter your bathroom.

Cluttered countertops and jam-packed bathroom cabinets aren't conducive to relaxation. To streamline your space, start by getting rid of any products that have expired or gone unused in the last year. As you restock, place any items you don't use on a regular basis inside cabinets, drawers, or baskets. Prioritize counter space and other open storage for the few essentials you use every day, and neatly tuck everything else away.

3. Stock plush bath towels.

Fluffy, luxuriously soft towels are key to achieving a spa-like atmosphere. Choose bath towels made from an absorbent material, such as cotton or bamboo, that over time will stand up well to washing. Display extra towels in a rolled arrangement, or create a stack with crisply folded edges. For an extra special touch, invest in a towel warmer rack ($165, Bed Bath & Beyond) so you can wrap yourself in a warm, cozy towel every time you step out of the shower.

4. Install a new showerhead.

Replacing your basic showerhead with a more luxurious model is an easy swap that can turn your daily routine into a rejuvenating experience. Look for features that suit your needs and preferences, such as massaging spray patterns, a handheld component, or a rain showerhead that sprays water from directly above. If you have room in your budget, consider upgrading other bathroom fixtures, such as the faucet or commode, to high-quality models with special features like touchless automation or heated toilet seats.

5. Use color to create calm.

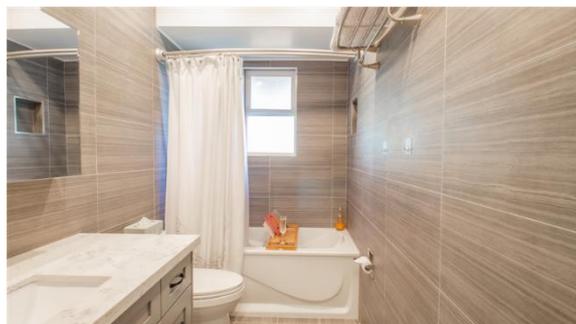

Choose soft, muted colors to establish a tranquil environment. When selecting your bathroom color scheme, avoid high-contrast pairings, such as black and white or blue and orange, which are bold and energizing rather than calming. Pairing warm neutrals with colors inspired by nature, like seafoam green or sky blue, creates a peaceful palette that would look right at home in a fancy spa.

6. Upgrade your toiletries.

Reinforce the spa look with extra details, like aesthetically pleasing bath products that blend with your color scheme. If your favorite products don't come in spa-worthy packaging, consider decanting your hand soap or shampoo and conditioner into pretty bottles. Clear glass jars are great for holding sponges, cotton rounds, and other small items. Organize toiletries on a tray by the sink to add a luxurious feel to your vanity area.

7. Incorporate plenty of bathroom storage.

Make it easy to maintain a clean, uncluttered look by incorporating lots of storage into your bathroom. In addition to bathroom cabinets and drawers, bring in baskets, mount hooks or shelves, and utilize furniture to boost storage and organization. Store like items together, and use smaller containers to subdivide into categories. Keeping everything together in one spot makes getting ready stress-free.

8. Soften floors with rugs.

Create luxuriously soft spaces by covering bathroom floors with plush rugs. Not only do rugs add character and another element of coziness, but they can save you from having to step onto cold tile floors on chilly mornings. To prevent mold or bacteria in the area right outside the tub or shower, choose a mat made from quick-drying material.

9. Brighten your bathroom with reflective surfaces.

Create a bright, airy look by outfitting your bathroom with lots of shimmering reflective surfaces. Large-scale mirrors, chrome fixtures, and polished tile all give bathrooms a sense of lightness and brightness, which can in turn lift your mood. To further brighten a dim bathroom, install additional light fixtures or choose brighter bulbs.

10. Incorporate calming scents.

Certain scents can instantly transport you to a peaceful mental space. Incorporate aromatherapy into your bathroom with calming scents like lavender, rosemary, or ylang-ylang. Essential oil diffusers and scented candles, lotions, or soaps provide simple ways to set a tranquil mood. Or hang a bundle of eucalyptus in your shower for a fresh burst of fragrance when you turn on the water.

11. Put a bench in the shower.

Take a note from luxury spas and hotels and put a water-resistant bench in your walk-in shower. This stylish addition offers a perch where you can sit back and enjoy the shower spray, and a shower bench also provides a handy surface for items like soap and shampoo.

12. Offer a cozy seat.

If your bathroom offers some additional square footage, a side chair or settee can make the room feel extra cozy and inviting. Position a chair near your tub or shower enclosure for a comfy spot to towel off. It should be upholstered in an indoor-outdoor fabric that can withstand a little heat and steam.

IV. How often should you clean your bathroom – for a germ-free wash space

The most intimate room of the home requires careful upkeep – for a clean and freshly-scented space always

How often should you clean your bathroom? It may seem that there is no definitive answer to this query – because, as we all know, bathrooms have a habit of getting out-of-control-messy at any given point.

All it takes is a leaky shampoo bottle in your shower, a toothpaste stain on your hand towel, or a toy-filled bath time session with your children – and your bathroom is ready to be cleaned once again. Therefore, the question of how often you should clean should really address just deep cleaning rather than day-to-day upkeep.

Knowing how to clean a bathroom effectively is important in preserving cleanliness and good personal hygiene – but knowing how often you should keep up this upkeep is equally vital. So, what does the time frame look like (with everyday care aside)? We asked the experts for the answer.

'Bathrooms have many different nooks and crannies that require consistent upkeep. Towels, toilet paper, and clothing also produce a lot of dust and fibers, which can cover a surface quickly, making your bathroom appear dirtier than it is. This is why a bathroom should be thoroughly cleaned at least once a week,' Dorian says.

The cleaning expert also recommends spot-cleaning at least once in between deep cleaning – and whenever you think it is necessary. When spot cleaning, Dorian suggests focusing on the areas that are prone to dirt.

'Things like hairspray, toothpaste, creams, and makeup can easily cover your bathroom surfaces and are very noticeable in a confined area like a washroom,' he says.

How Often Should I Clean The Toilet Bowl?

You should aim to clean your toilet once a week, according to Dorian Alves, the founder, and CEO of Silent Maids.

'A toilet is also a breeding ground for germs, and when used by multiple people in a day, it can get dirty quickly. Cleaning a toilet once a week helps it to stay clean and sanitized and also makes each week less difficult to clean,' the expert says.

Cleaning a bathroom sink alongside your bowl ensures you can keep track of what you have cleaned – and ensure your space looks well-maintained for longer. Meanwhile, when it comes to bathroom shower ideas, James Chapman, Bella Bathrooms, urges you to clean immediately after you've finished.

'The dirt and fats will be loosened with the warmth, and it will be the case if a quick wipe over,' he says.

V. How to Properly Clean a Toilet

Cleaning a toilet can be a very unappealing chore. While it's not complicated, it is possible to get it wrong. Believe it or not, there actually is a right way to clean a toilet, and the proper method will help ensure that you eliminate any bacteria and viruses that may be thriving there. The right cleaning techniques will not only give you superior results but also save you time and energy.

Gather Supplies and Prepare the Area

Start by removing everything from around your toilet—cleaning a toilet can be a messy job, and there's always the chance of splashing cleaner or water outside of the actual toilet. Prevent extra cleanup by removing all excess items from around the toilet and on the tank lid. Don't forget to remove anything on top of the tank to prevent dropping items into the bowl during cleaning.

Flush and Add Cleaning Solution

Put on rubber gloves before beginning any work. Flush the toilet with the lid down to prevent splashing or spraying. Add your choice of powdered, liquid, or gel cleanser into the toilet bowl, applying as close to the toilet rim as possible to prevent the cleanser from being diluted.

Clean the Exterior of the Toilet

After the cleansing solution soaks into the toilet grime in the bowl and you flush it away, clean the outside of the toilet with a bathroom cleaner that is strong enough to disinfect as well.

Start at the top to prevent dripping on already clean surfaces. Spray the tank, handle, and tank edges and wipe them all down. Next, do the outside lid of the toilet. Finally, wipe down the entire outside of the bowl. Start with the sides and front before cleaning the bottom edges of the toilet where it meets the floor.

Now is also a good time to quickly mop the floor around the toilet, which may also be dirty.

Clean the Toilet Seat

The toilet seat should never be neglected. After all, it's the part of the toilet that comes into actual contact with people, and it needs to be cleaned thoroughly. Raise the seat, spraying the seat, inside lid, and the rim of the toilet with bathroom cleaner. Wipe down the lid, seat, and hinges at the back of the toilet seat.

Some toilets have hinges that will pop open to allow better access for cleaning. Wipe the entire seat with a cloth moistened with clean water to remove any traces of bleach or chemicals from the sitting surface.

Clean the Inside of the Toilet Bowl

Begin cleaning the bowl from the top down. Always begin scrubbing under the rim first. Look under the rim to get all the stains and grime scrubbed away. Next, scrub the bowl with the toilet brush, including the drain hole opening at the bottom of the toilet bowl. Flush the toilet with the lid down.

If the toilet bowl has brown or reddish rust or mineral stains, you can clean the porcelain with baking soda or a commercial product, such as Lime-Away or Rust-Away. Some people suggest pouring a can of cola into the bowl, scrubbing and rinsing, then mixing vinegar into the toilet bowl water to dissolve any remaining stains.

Either way, make sure you have flushed the toilet first before working on rust stains, as the rust-cleaning products may react with the chemicals in the general-purpose cleaner. Flush the bowl with the lid down after this scrubbing, as well.

Clean Up the Surrounding Area

To finish up, clean up any drips of cleanser or water that may have occurred, put away tools and trash, and replace any items you removed on or around the toilet.

VI. What Is The Best Order To Clean A Bathroom?

Did you know that your toilet bowl contains about 3.2 million bacteria per square inch? But the good news is that you are safe from these bacteria as long as you close the lid before flushing. If you leave the lid open, then when you flush the toilet, these bacteria will become airborne and spread in your toilet.

However, there are also other bacteria like E.coli, germs, and viruses like calicivirus that linger in your washroom and affect your health. For instance, your bathtub contains 119,468 bacteria per square inch, and your sink contains 2733 bacteria per square inch.

Thus, you can see how important it is to clean your washroom regularly to kill these household germs.

You should also hire a professional cleaning service in Perth to deep clean your bathroom every month so they can clean and disinfect problem areas. To get you kickstarted with your cleaning, here is a step-by-step order on how to scrub and polish your washroom:

1. Get Rid Of Extra Items

Cleaning experts who offer affordable vacate cleaning in Perth recommend you start your process by decluttering your washroom. This will make it easier to clean every corner of your washroom.

To declutter your washroom, remove your rugs and mats and put them for washing. Then, remove items on your shelves, in your cabinets and in your sink and bathtub.

2. Wash Your Rugs And Mats

Now, wash your rugs and mats on the cold cycle in the laundry machine and add a bit of vinegar to remove stains. You should then air-dry them before you place them back in the washroom.

3. Dry Dust Your Washroom

Start by dusting all the items you have taken out of the washroom with a dry microfiber cloth or duster. Do this for the rest of your washroom, and move from top to bottom and left to right. This will ensure that when you wet clean your washroom, you won't be dealing with damp dirt smudges as the dry dusting would have removed any loose dust.

4. Wet Clean Your Items

Once you have removed all the dust from your washroom, take a wet microfiber cloth and spray white vinegar on it. Then use that cloth to scrub down all the items you had removed.

5. Use Shaving Cream On Your Mirrors

Next, dab shaving cream on your mirrors and glass surfaces to remove stains and dirt. Leave it for 15 minutes, and then wipe down your mirrors with a wet microfiber cloth in circular motions. Finish by using a squeegee to dry your mirrors and avoid any water stains.

6. Clean Your Sinks

Since your sink also contains a lot of bacteria, you must clean it properly and efficiently. Once you have dry-dusted the area, you should take a microfiber cloth and spray white vinegar on it. Next, start scrubbing your sink with this cloth in circular motions towards the drain. Finish by rinsing the sink and drying it with a clean microfiber cloth.

7. Clean Your Drains

Next, you must clean your washroom drains, and you can do this by first pouring 1/2 cup of baking soda into the drain. Then, add one cup of white vinegar and let the mixture react. The acetic acid in the vinegar will mix with the neutral baking soda and create a bubbling foam that will loosen all the dust and grime in your drain so that it is easier to remove.

Leave the mixture for twenty minutes before rinsing it with hot water to remove all the dirt. You can also add two drops of essential oil to make your drains smell nice.

8. Clean Your Taps

Your faucets contain 6,267 bacteria per square inch because you use them after flushing the toilet. Thus, it is essential to scrub these faucets to remove these germs and prevent any bacterial infections. You should spray white vinegar on your faucets and leave it for ten minutes.

Then scrub your faucets with a wet microfiber cloth or soft-bristled brush till all the dirt comes off. Then you must finish by drying them with a clean cloth. You should do this every day to keep them germ-free and clean.

9. Clean Your Bathtub

Your bathtub is also a significant germ hub and should be cleaned next. Quality bond cleaners in Perth recommend that you start by rinsing the tub with warm water to make it a little wet. Then spray one cup of baking soda on your bathtub and leave it for twenty minutes. The baking soda will react with the wet surfaces in the tub and create a thick paste.

Next, brush and scrub the baking soda mixture and watch your stains and watermarks disappear. Rinse the tub with water, and then spray the whole area with white vinegar to disinfect it and leave it to dry.

10. Clean Your Toilet

Before cleaning your floors, you should clean the toilet so that if any dirt and germs fall on the floor, you can clean it in the next step.

- To clean your toilet, spray the outsides, the lid and the flush with white vinegar.
- Then scrub it with a brush and use wet wipes to remove all the vinegar and disinfect these areas.
- Next, pour one cup of vinegar and half a baking soda into your toilet bowl and leave it for an hour.
- Use a toilet brush, scrub your toilet bowl, and then flush the area.
- You should then spray white vinegar in your toilet again to disinfect it

11. Clean Your Bathroom Floors

Lastly and most importantly, you must scrub your bathroom floors clean. You can create a homemade cleaning solution with two cups of water, one cup of white vinegar and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of baking soda with two drops of orange essential oil. Dip a wet mop in this solution and wipe it across your floor.

Then clean the floor with a dry cloth and let it dry. If you have any grout or stains that won't come off, sprinkle some more baking soda on those areas, leave it for thirty minutes, and then scrub it off.

Once your floors are also clean, you can put back all your items, empty your garbage, and put in a new liner.

Your washroom is a magnet for germs and needs to be cleaned regularly in the order given above. Once you have mastered the order, you will be able to clean your washroom in no time and get rid of all the harmful bacteria and germs. You should also hire bond cleaning experts in Perth to tackle difficult areas so that your bathroom is easier to maintain regularly.
