

Providing Legendary Courses Following the Recommendations of the Leading Golf Architects

Golf course design of Golf Design India is a blend of most famous golf architects and with a realization of psyching up ourselves to produce a golf course that reflects Golf Design India. Donald Ross, Alister MacKenzie, and Pete Dye remain important figures in course design with most designing both challenging play and interesting landscapes that are endearing. Their contributions continue to educate the golf designers on how they might optimize on the natural environment, the direction of play, and overall creating exciting experiences for the players irrespective of their caliber. Thus, following in these footsteps, we at Golf Design India work with the policy of maximum quality in each created project.

Our team is aware that a splendid golf course engages a player and integrates with nature far beyond feats; it plays with nature. Following the best golf architects who have created courses with timeless nature, we synchronize the irregularities of the ground, plantings, and water in the area to improve both playability and looking. These elements we prefer to employ in order to promote the strategic play which reflects the distinctive design of the classical courses and which at the same time makes them captivating and enjoyable.

At Golf Design India , teams are dedicated to client satisfaction, and hence, there is always agreement between the team and the client in terms of vision. In every project, we combine new ideas with the standards set by golf design pioneers, to create designs that deliver what modern golfers want, while marrying the principles of golf design. We are with every step of the planning, design, and construction process, paying equal attention at each and every step to make sure that the standards are as high as with those set by the well known golf architecture icons.

So, apart from designing fresh new courses, we offer the existing layouts' restoration and the course contemporary development. We feel quite passionate about restoration projects more so those courses that have been developed by legendary architects, and which should continue facilitating the exciting challenge for future administrations.

Integrating many years of experience and the heritage of the most internationally recognized golf designers, Golf Design India continues the golden tradition and creates beautiful and functional golf courses. Inherent in every instance we get to design, there is passion to provide a golfer's experience rooted in exemplary style that in the future is all set to break new ground. If you are planning on having a new course established or an existing one modified, we are here to give you the house that has the best of tradition and nature's creations while challenging every golfer like the learned architectures in golfing.
